District Legion, Auxiliary Officers Elected at Convention Held Here

Fairfield Man, Mrs. Burgess are Voted to Top Posts

Harrisburg was host to the annual convention of the 24th District of the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17.

The convention officially started Sunday at 8 a. m. with registration, but a pre-convention dance and social affair was held Saturday night in the George Hart Post 187 Legion home. A band from Fairfield played for the dance.

Highlighting the sessions were the election of officers and delegates to the National convention. Mrs. Burgess Heads Auxiliary

This was the year for the 24th District to nominate the 5th Division's Senior Vice Commander and the election will be formally held at the Division convention at Murphysboro July 8. This places Dr. Fry in line to be the Commander of the 5th Division in 1957.

Bob Hull of the Harrisburg Post was the only local-area man elected as a delegate to the national convention, to be held in Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 3 to 6 inclusive. Department Officers Here

Forest Fire by Cypriots Kill 19 British Soldiers

Scores Burned in Blaze Started by Guerrilla Leaders

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A forest fire apparently touched off by trapped leaders of the anti-British EOKA Greek Cypriot underground killed 19 British soldiers and burned scores of others, it was announced today.

Operation "Lucky Alphonse," a British army drive to capture the death-dealing guerrillas, turned into disaster for the British troops—the worst of the Cyprus rebellion.

The caged-in guerrillas were believed to have started the flames that roared through the dry pine woods of the Troodos mountains into the advancing lines of soldiers. It was the worst toll in 14 months of battle.

The British army said that 19 were killed and 18 injured seriously when the fire first burst onto the cordon of troops Sunday. Another 50 casualties were being flown back to hospitals today as the blaze raged out of control.

The operation was aimed particularly at Col. George Grivas, the British-trained Greek Cypriot leader of EOKA who once put a "price" on the head of Sir John Harding, the British military governor of Cyprus.

He was reported surrounded in the 400 square miles of pine woods and dense underbrush at one point but apparently escaped when the forest fire raced through the tinder dry woods toward the British army.

Hospitals throughout the island were filled with burned men as British troops and civilians fought the flames.

The forest fire hit some of Britain's top troops—Marine commandos, paratroopers, armor and ground units of the Royal Air Force and the Royal Navy.

Att'y. Baker, who had many friends and acquaintances in this area, died suddenly at his home, 8 Country Club drive, Belleville, Saturday. He was a member of the law firm of Baker, Kekagy and Wagner, with offices in East St. Louis and Belleville. He had been secretary of the Illinois Public Aid commission since 1943.

Survivors include his widow, Bernice; three sons, Harold Jr., a member of his father's law firm; Lt. William D. Baker, and Douglas M. Baker.

Governor Stratton Dedicates New Ag Building at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Gov. William G. Stratton helped dedicate a new agriculture building at Southern Illinois University Sunday and predicted the school will have an enrollment of 10,000 students "in a few years."

The governor said the "people are proud of the tremendous growth in size of Southern Illinois University. The university now ranks as one of the best in the nation," he said.

"We have to make college education more attractive and more readily attainable to the youth of our state," because from one-third to one-fourth of high school graduates do not go on to college, he said.

C. H. Thompson Named Investigator for Supreme Court in Labor Injury Cases

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special)—The Illinois State Supreme Court has appointed Charles H. Thompson, Harrisburg, former State Supreme Court Justice, a special commissioner of the court to investigate practices of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and similar organizations in employing lawyers to render services to their members in personal injury cases.

The court appointed Thompson, a former state senator and a former state chairman of the senate industrial affairs committee which deals with labor problems, last Friday. In the order naming Thompson the Tribunal said Thompson's inquiry "is an investigation of a condition and not the acts of any designated person" and that no hearings will be public until after a report is made.

The order reads as follows: "Questions have arisen as to the practices of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and similar organizations in employing lawyers to render service to their members in personal injury cases, and the practices of individual lawyers in connection with those cases. These questions involve important issues related to the administration of justice.

"They are of interest to the public and the legal profession. The court wishes to explore the matter and to that end hereby appoints the Honorable Charles H. Thompson as special commissioner of this court, with power to inquire into and take proof of all relevant factual matters and to report the testimony together with the applicable principles of law to the chief justice.

"This inquiry is an investigation of a condition and not the acts of any designated person and for these reasons the commissioner shall not conduct public hearings until report is made, after which such further steps will be taken as may be deemed appropriate and necessary.

"The commissioner is authorized to administer oaths and take testimony and hear legal arguments of interested persons. Upon his request the clerk of the court shall issue writs of subpoena ad testificandum, writs of subpoena duces tecum or edimus potestatem to take depositions. The proceedings hereunder shall not be deemed to be in lieu of or an amendment to rule 59 of this court. (Rule 59 has to do with disbarment of attorneys)."

The action of the court is the outgrowth of a motion by William C. Wines, Chicago attorney, for leave to file a petition for a declaratory judgment or a directive order concerning the practice of law in a case involving the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in employment of attorneys to handle injury cases of members of the Brotherhood and "as to whether the candidly admitted facts (listed in Wines' petition) transgress any canon of ethics" of the legal profession.

Kefauver Sends Apology for Attacks on Adlai

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver has taken steps to "kiss and make up" with Adlai E. Stevenson. Stevenson promptly replied that he was "much pleased."

Kefauver insisted that his move had no political implications. He said he still is fighting "to win" the Democratic presidential nomination over Stevenson and other hopefuls and that his "present" position is that he would not accept the vice presidential nomination.

But Kefauver made the first move Sunday in apologizing for his personal attacks on Stevenson during their recent presidential primary battles. He said on a national television program that "I got mad and lost my head" and "got somewhat out of character" in criticizing Stevenson.

Would Join Campaign

He said that if Stevenson should win the Democratic nomination again, he would campaign for him. Stevenson, in a telegram to Kefauver from his Libertyville, Ill., home, praised the senator for helping "immeasurably to restore unity to our party and strength to our common cause." He said he was "much pleased" by Kefauver's statement.

Although Kefauver refused to count himself out of the presidential race, many Democrats think his chances suffered a near-mortal blow with his Florida and California defeats. There has been speculation that he might accept the number two spot on a presidential ticket headed by either Stevenson or New York Gov. Averell Harriman.

If Kefauver threw all of his delegate strength to Stevenson and if his delegates remained faithful to his lead, Stevenson would have nearly enough convention votes to win the presidential nomination on the first ballot.

McKinley Baptists Dedicate New Building; Observe Anniversary

McKinley Avenue Baptist church yesterday dedicated the new east unit of the church structure, which is the education building, on the same day it celebrated its 50th year as a church in Harrisburg.

Climaxing the morning and afternoon of activity was the laying of the cornerstone at the southeast corner of the new unit following an impressive outdoors service.

At the cornerstone laying ceremony the church pastor, the Rev. J. D. McCarty, was the master of ceremonies, and he called on the following for remarks: H. C. Hendren, chairman of the board of deacons; Charles D. Barrett, representing the training unions; Rufus Davidson, representing the Sunday school; Mrs. Roy Caldwell, representing the Women's Missionary union; Norman Pickford, representing the Brotherhood; Roy Caldwell, representing the board of trustees; Maynard Cannon, representing the music department; and Kenneth Smith, chairman of the building committee.

Joe Nelson, a former member of the building committee now living in Murphysboro, delivered the prayer of dedication.

Items placed inside the cornerstone included records of the growth of the church, personnel of church organizations as of today; and copies of The Daily Register, one which told of the dedication of the first two units in June, 1952, and last Thursday's issue which told of the forthcoming program which took place yesterday.

The morning service was devoted to the 50th anniversary of the church with the Rev. L. H. Moore, state secretary of evangelism, preaching the anniversary sermon. Rev. Moore also delivered the dedicatory address at the afternoon service.

Visiting pastors of Harrisburg took part in the service of dedication. Charles Raley, a former member and now a minister, read the scripture and also sang as a solo, "Bless This House."

The addition of the east unit of the building, at a cost of $58,331.24 completes the beautiful quarter million dollar church structure.

No Discussion Of Political Plans, VP Says

Vice President Is Besieged By Reporters

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower conferred privately with Vice President Richard M. Nixon for 15 minutes today at Walter Reed hospital. Nixon told reporters that "the question of the President's future political actions was not discussed."

Mr. Eisenhower also held a separate private meeting with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and a brief joint meeting with Nixon and Dulles. It was his first visit with Nixon since the President's emergency operation June 9 to relieve an intestinal block.

After lunch, Mr. Eisenhower conferred for 15 minutes with White House legislative liaison aide, Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons. Hagerty said the President expressed his "deep and continued vital interest" in having Congress restore a "major portion" of the $1,100,000,000 House cut in the foreign aid program, and his "very great interest in getting movement on the school bill."

Reporters besieged Nixon on his departure from the presidential suite with questions about Mr. Eisenhower's political intention.

After denying "categorically" that the question was discussed this morning, Nixon said that the question of whether the President will reconsider his decision to run for re-election is one that the "President alone" can answer.

He said Mr. Eisenhower will make the decision and select his own "time and place" for announcing it. He said it would not be "proper" for him, Nixon, to speculate on when or what the decision will be.

Weigh All Factors

Nixon said Mr. Eisenhower himself knows best the requirements of leadership, both in national and international fields, and knows the burdens of the office and his own physical capacity.

Nixon said he is sure the President will "weigh" all the factors involved and make the "proper decision."

Asked if he might reappraise his own decision to seek re-election as vice president because of the President's current illness, Nixon said that "until" the President announces any change in his

Drama in the Cockpit

Editorial
BY KENNETH O. GILMORE

In these days when the nation's airlines are outdoing the railroads in several major travel categories, handling a big multi-engine aircraft is almost like piloting a ship. Operations seem so impersonal it's hard to remember human beings are in charge.

An event that took place a short time ago serves to remind us, however, that air travel is not yet quite mechanized.

Capt. Harry Huking, a United Air Lines pilot, turned in his wings at the mandatory retirement age of 60. Behind him lay a career that reads like a capsule history of U. S. aviation.

He started flying in military service during World War I, taking the stick of an old four-cylinder plane with less power than today's cars. Then he flew the airmail for the Post Office Department, flitting with the rugged Sierra Nevada mountains between San Francisco and Reno.

Once he crashed in a tree when he climbed too high and his plane's carburetor froze. Another time he couldn't find Reno so set his ship down in the desert and trudged along with the mail sack slung over his shoulder.

Flying later for a commercial company, he tried to put his plane down in a meadow when clouds blotted out the airfield. He hit a power line and crashed into a river.

He was an experimental flier for a time in the 1930's, helping to develop blind-flying techniques.

His career with United began before this. In World War II, flying the Pacific under the Air Transport Command, he made the first landing at Okinawa when the shape-up for the occupation of Japan started. He landed at Tokyo on the first day of the occupation.

After the war he handled United's first San Francisco-Hawaii flight in 1947. Altogether he was at the controls for more than 1,000 crossings on this route. His very last trip took him from the islands to the mainland.

Huking is said to be the nation's senior airline pilot. Certainly his lifetime in the air—seven million miles of it—is about as colorful as anyone could ask.

Probably there are many other commercial pilots with long, fruitful and exciting personal careers. The door to the cockpit closes off most of these stories, and the heroes go largely unsung.

It's good they've named a plane for Huking. It will help us to remember that, for all the electronic gadgets they bear, today's planes do not quite fly by themselves.

Solid Contradiction

JOHN B. HOLLISTER, U. S. foreign aid chief, made a healthy contribution the other day when he sought to counter the oft-heard declarations that Russia is outdoing us among neutral nations.

He said that when our efforts are compared carefully with those of the Soviet Union, the Russians are "hardly in the running."

That doesn't mean, of course, that the Reds do not make substantial headway by propaganda and other devices. But it does suggest that just possibly we are not totally at the Kremlin's mercy in this labor to serve the "uncommitted" peoples.

There is some feeling here that altogether too much is said by our own public figures to the effect that we are "losing" the neutral countries. Even if it were wholly true — and one suspects a good deal of political exaggeration — this constant moaning seems a poor solution.

National self-criticism is good and necessary. But if it runs a point into the ground, its purpose can be defeated. Hollister applied a sound corrective.

"Pardon Me—I'd Like to Take His Pulse"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Armed Services Continue Feeding Through Advertisements Of Big Companies; Los Angeles Mayor Insults Mexican Consul General; One Lone Republican Has Doubts About Ike's Health.

WASHINGTON. — It has been overlooked in the Pentagon feeding, but the armed services have found a way to get around budget restrictions on publicity. The Army, Navy, and Air Force simply use their contractors to buy advertising for them.

Connecticut's GOP Congressman "Pat" Patterson, a House Armed Services committee member, has dug up statistics showing that defense contractors spend millions in advertising for the separate services.

The latest available figures show that Air Force contractors spent $2,348,082 in 1954 to plug the Air Force. Navy contractors spent $1,351,006 to advertise the Navy, not counting an additional $35,070 on Marine Corps advertising. The Army got the least out of its contractors—only $248,030 worth of advertising.

This was the amount of money spent for magazine advertising alone and does not include other propaganda costs footed by the contractors. For example, Air Force contractors spend millions more to promote the Air Force through the Air Force Association. Navy contractors also help subsidize the Navy League, which puts out pro-Navy propaganda.

The cost of all this propaganda, of course, comes indirectly from the taxpayers through defense contracts. The contractors actually set aside a portion of their defense profits to buy advertising and openly take sides in the Army-Navy-Air Force feud.

As private companies, they are not restricted by Pentagon rules against feuding. Thus the services get the benefit of this indirect publicity without having it charged against their publicity budgets.

Congressman Patterson has obtained a confidential breakdown of how much defense money was spent on armed services advertising in 1954. Here are the amounts of the biggest defense contractors spent in that year:

United Aircraft Corp., $642,833; Borg-Warner Corp., $515,184; Douglas Aircraft Co., $341,808; Boeing Airplane Co., $299,425; General Electric, $258,823; Grumman Aircraft Engine Corp., $227,043; Lockheed Aircraft Corp., $179,531; General Dynamics Corp., $174,425; Bell Telephone, $128,885; General Motors, $121,247; Republic Aviation, $144,725.

Since the bulk of business of several of these companies is from the armed services, they probably didn't need much magazine advertising at all.

ROTHEADED MAYOR

Ex-Congressman Norris Poulson, now mayor of Los Angeles, almost caused an international incident when he got sore at the Mexican consul general in southern California and accused him of running narcotics across the Mexican border.

It all happened when Mayor Poulson, who can be both genial and hot-headed, asked Consul General Adolfo G. Dominguez to give VIP treatment to Carleton Williams of the Los Angeles Times when the latter visited Mexico City. Somewhere along the line, however, instructions for Williams' VIP treatment got delayed so that he left Mexico City before word arrived that the red carpet was to be rolled out in his honor.

Williams, who has been Poulson's good friend in covering City Hall, reported this oversight to the mayor, who promptly picked up the telephone and bawled out Consul General Dominguez.

"I am sick and tired," Mayor Poulson told the Mexican consul general, "of giving the red-carpet treatment to so many Mexican officials and then having this happen to a friend of mine."

"And what's more," concluded Poulson, "I think some of you guys have something to do with all the dope that's been coming across the border."

The mayor hung up.

To accuse a Mexican official of smuggling narcotics was an insult that could not be overlooked, and Dominguez made an official report to his government, which, in turn, sent it to Washington. In Washington, however, wise old Ambassador Manuel Tello did not rush down to the State Department with a precipitous protest. Discreetly, he waited—until two friends got the mayor and the consul general together at lunch and made them shake hands.

GOP-GO-ROUND

One prominent Republican who's grumbling about Ike's physical fitness to run again is Congressman Clarence Brown of Ohio and he's grumbling only in private. Clarence said that the operation was the last straw and Ike should withdraw from the race. GOP National Chairman Len Hall is talking and acting as if Ike's illness was no more serious than a simple stomach upset. Preparations for the San Francisco convention are going ahead as scheduled. A convention arrangements committee will be in Washington June 22 to make final preparations. It won't so much as consider the possibility of a contest. At the White House all aides are giving out the same rehearsed line — namely, that Ike took his intestinal condition into consideration when he made his original decision to run; therefore, he should be healthier and more inclined to run than ever. brief, they argue that Ike is really healthier for having had the operation. There's no explanation for the fact that the President's recent "top-to-toe" medical examination overlooked his stomach ailment which the White House now says Ike knew he had. . . . White House aides say that the "Ike-is-now-healthier" line was not the brainchild of the B. B. D. & O. advertising firm, which advises both the Republican National Committee and the White House on public relations. A couple of B. B. D. & O. boys admittedly visited the White House around the time of the President's attack, but White House aides say they had nothing to do with this new theory.

Crime Rises in Hot Weather, Hoover Warns

WASHINGTON (UP)—FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover warned the nation today that killers, rapists and robbers strike most often in hot weather.

The warning was given in Hoover's annual report on crime as the nation sweltered in the grip of an eight-day heat wave.

The number of murders surged sharply upward from July to September last year, crime reports showed.

Rapes and aggravated assaults both began their annual rise in July, with the strong-arm attack hitting its peak that same month. The yearly high for the sex offense was August.

In general, Hoover reported, "People, not season, cause crimes. Different seasons, however, motivate different crimes."

The FBI director cited summer as the season for crimes against the person—winter for crimes against property. And he listed "opportunity, social contacts, heat, cold and other factors" as "probables" in seasonal crime trends.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
O let the nations be glad and sing for joy: for thou shalt govern the nations upon earth. Psalm 67:4.

When people submit to God's rule they establish themselves in infinite harmony, but when men deny and refuse to be governed by divine law there is no harmony and indeed not even material prosperity.

WHAT'S REALLY IN THE BOTTLE

When you get a prescription filled, do you see what's really in that small bottle? Those pills or capsules, simple as they may look, often are the product of some of the best scientific minds of our time. They may represent years of effort by chemists, bacteriologists, biochemists, and other highly trained specialists. Many of the "wonder drugs" that we take for granted so quickly are miracles of research and production.

Something else that's in the bottle is assurance. Only a few years ago, if you can remember, we had no very effective drugs for pneumonia, or strep throat, or hundreds of other diseases. They often meant a touch-and-go fight for life, weeks of hospital bills, and then a long convalescence without pay-checks.

What a contrast today! For many of those once-dreaded illnesses, that little bottle of pills means you'll be up and around in a few days. There are often no hospital bills at all, because you can be safely treated at home. Most important of all, you are not ridden with fear—of the disease, of expenses, or long weeks out of work.

Yes, there's a lot more in that prescription bottle than meets the eye.

Eisenhower Confers With Nixon, Dulles

decision "none of us" who made decisions based on his will change.

Nixon saw Mr. Eisenhower alone for 15 minutes. The two were then joined by Dulles for 5 minutes. Then Dulles conferred alone with the President for 10 minutes on "State Department matters."

Later, Mr. Eisenhower spent 25 minutes with his chief assistant, disposing of a batch of White House papers.

The President signed 10 bills, vetoed 1, approved 5 nominations, issued a proclamation of Citizenship Day, approved two supplemental appropriations, accepted a resignation, sent nominations of 136 postmasters to the Senate, and signed routine lists of Air Force promotions.

The President had been up and had taken his daily walking exercises before his visitors arrived. He was back in bed when he conferred with them.

The President's day Sunday was marked by two joyful events—receiving a Father's Day visit and gifts from his four grandchildren and eating three full meals for the first time since his operation.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty quoted Mr. Eisenhower as describing the taste of his noon-time chopped beef patty as "wonderful." And Hagerty said the 10-minute visit of the grandchildren was a "fine tonic" for the President's spirits.

The grandchildren's gifts were four ivy and philodendron plants in gaily colored flower pots which the three oldest grandchildren painted themselves.

The President's son, Maj. John Eisenhower and his wife drove to the hospital from Ft. Belvoir, Va., in a station wagon with their four children—David, 8; Barbara Ann, 7; Susan, 4; and Mary Jean, six months.

Mr. Eisenhower grinned broadly as the young Eisenhower family trooped into his hospital room, ranged themselves in a semi-circle of chairs around his bed, and enjoyed a 10-minute chat.

Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower summed up the day for all the Eisenhowers when she left the hospital for the first time since the President's illness to attend religious services at the Walter Reed Memorial Chapel.

"Lots of smiles this morning," she remarked while posing for photographs with the minister, the Rev. Alfred V. Bradley, an Army chaplain.

Coast-to-Coast in 90 Minutes Forecast

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—New York to San Francisco in one and one-half hours? That's the time schedule of future passenger-carrying rocket planes forecast by Dr. Walter R. Dornberg, Bell Aircraft Corp. consultant.

"Rocket planes will be used for long distance travel in the future," he said.

"Like giant ocean liners, they will be comparatively few in number and will be used only between the longest points on our planet."

Dr. Dornberg said such ships will make a run from New York to San Francisco in one and one-half hours and from Hawaii to Sydney, Australia, in slightly more than that.

Turning to aircraft guidance, the Bell rocket expert said "the time of man with the airplane is not gone." He pointed out that machines can be designed to replace all human actions in aircraft control, but "you cannot replace his thinking or his reasoning power."

"We want to conquer space by man, not by machine," he added.

Churches, Labor Unions, Merchants Join Forces to Curb Sunday Business

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Churches, labor unions and merchants' associations in many parts of the country are joining forces in an effort to curb the growing tendency of retail stores to conduct "business as usual" on Sunday.

Sunday selling, once confined largely to drug stores and delicatessens, has been spreading rapidly into other lines of business during the last few years. In many communities, the "Open on Sunday" sign is now commonplace in automobile agencies, appliance, hardware and furniture stores, and even supermarkets.

Both Protestant and Catholic leaders are alarmed by this new challenge to the already battered tradition of Sabbath observance. They consider it a far more fundamental threat to the church's teachings than Sunday movies and baseball games, against which some religious groups fought a losing battle half a generation ago.

Sunday amusements could be defended on the grounds that they were a form of rest, at least for the audience. But liberal as well as conservative theologians can see no such justification for the seven day retail business week.

It is, they feel, a clearcut denial of the ancient insight, incorporated in the third commandment and strongly supported by the findings of modern psychology, that man needs to set aside one day a week to refresh his spirit with worship and rest.

Church crusades against Sunday selling are getting powerful support in some areas from labor unions and from businessmen who are suffering from "Open on Sunday" competition.

Such a three-way alliance was formed in Minneapolis, Minn., recently when some large food stores tried to remove from union contracts provisions which prohibit Sunday work. Union resistance to the demand was backed up by the Retail Grocers Assn. Then the churches got into the fight. The Coordinating Council of the Methodist Church issued a strong statement calling on "the members of our churches in particular and society in general to refrain from all unnecessary business activity on Sunday." Lutheran and Presbyterian churches followed suit, and Minneapolis Baptists went even further by urging their members to boycott throughout the week any store that remained open on Sunday.

Confronted with this storm of protest, the food stores which had proposed Sunday operation backed down, at least temporarily, and dropped their demand for a change in union rules.

Drunken Father Kills Dad of Daughter's Girl Friend at Barbecue Party

RUSTON, La. (AP)—Police today held a 50-year-old father on charges that he shot and killed a close family friend at a Fathers Day barbecue while the teen-age daughters of the two men watched in horror.

Officers arrested Jerry Andrews 50, shortly after the shooting and charged him with the murder of Floyd Hubbard, 43. He was held without bond.

Witnesses told police that Andrews fatally shot Hubbard and slightly wounded Hubbard's wife during a sudden, drunken outbreak that shattered a happy barbecue party on the back lawn at fore noon and that he was very drunk. She said that the two families were good friends and that Elizabeth Andrews had spent the previous night with her daughter.

Mrs. Hubbard said that Andrews surrendered a pistol he was carrying at the doorway, but the pistol was later returned to him when the group went to the back yard where Hubbard was preparing the barbecue.

Witnesses said that Andrews had just been served when he jumped to his feet and shouted, "You didn't think I meant it when I said I was going to kill both of you."

Then, according to witnesses, he shot Hubbard in the thigh and in the chest. He turned the gun on Mrs. Hubbard and shot her in the thigh before he ran from the house.

THE STORY: Frank Ude now knows that Emmett Cash is an outlaw. As a posse trails Frank and Emmett near Cashtown, Frank tries to part company but Emmett shoots a posseman's horse in order to make Frank an outlaw too.

Frank swung about, "I ought to kill you for that!" he murmured between tight jaws.

Again that laugh in Emmett's brazen way. "We're both in it now. Don't try and run against your rope. Lew Chaney won't let up till he cripples his horse in bringing you in."

Frank was without knowledge of the hiding places around this country. He didn't have a chance unless he rode down now and surrendered to Chaney. To do this he'd have to kill Emmett first.

"There's a blind canyon yonder a couple miles that's not as blind as it looks. Lew Chaney's lost beyond that rock pile. The other side of the hill is Yates' homestead. Not even Chaney would be fool enough to jump us when my whole outfit's together."

As he started downlope he decided Sheriff Chaney was shrewd in withholding the posse's fire until they closed the gap. Frank decided he was in a fix and might as well go through with Emmett. After they had outdistanced the posse beyond the box canyon he could make his break. "No more shooting if we ride together."

Emmett forged ahead, plunging his gray between the canyon's jaws at breakneck speed. They raced through the canyon's throat lifting dust in narrows where the sunlight could enter only from above. Frank now saw the walls curve in a crescent shape bow creating an oval pocket perhaps a half mile wide. An ugly mine dump and the gray-board mill building he had expected loomed against the yellow rim. Behind it a narrow trail twisted as far as the mine head. Above that stood only the vertical walls of the canyon. Close as he inspected this pocket he could find no suggestion of a way out. Except for Emmett's description he would have sworn they had placed themselves in a trap.

Emmett put his horse toward the mine shack. "You see that ledge on our left?" His face was unyielding and tight. "They call this the Mojave Box. White men holed up here one time and were starved to death by the Indians. There's a faint deer trail that tops out from the far end of the ledge. Few suspect there's a trail up there!"

They averted toward the mine shack, Emmett raking his horse up to the door before quitting saddle. "Get down," he snapped, tension putting a fresh edge to his voice. He stood with his weight settled heavily on his heels, his gelding close-hauled and blowing noisily beside his elbows. Frank kicked out of his exobrows trying to figure what Emmett planned.

Emmett swung his glance around, satisfied. He said wryly, "They'll figure we're shackled up inside, and Chaney'll spend an hour going over the place. Don't leave any trail sign from here on!"

Now he led the gray by the bridle, picking his way with expert skill over the flinty reefs. Whenever Frank's chestnut stepped on to soft gravel he returned, dusting the earth with his jacket. There seemed a pure delight about his expression.

They worked slowly across the basin floor leaving behind no visible sign at all so far as Frank could see. Frank's eyes picked out the ancient wash. It was rock strewn, with occasional brush clinging to it, and Frank doubted whether his chestnut could traverse that vertical gash.

Emmett watched his appraisal of the climb. He said shrewly, "I wouldn't try this, except your chestnut's as good as my gray. Use your lines to hold up his lead."

"You've been here before?" Emmett nodded. "My sister showed me first."

They went up, Emmett first, literally pulling his gray by the reins.

The wash was so steep that Frank fought desperately for his footing. He slid down two steps almost knocking the chestnut's feet from under. After that he dug his heels into the gravel. He pulled hard on his reins and only his weight lifting against the bridle kept the chestnut from rolling over backwards. There was one last moment when Frank feared the chestnut would carry him down in a backward somersault, then the gelding threw all his strength into a bolting forward action, pushing Frank upward and onto the ledge.

Beside him Emmett laughed. "Good fellow! Man ought to be free to live like this all his life. That's how it was when my old man first came. The Mojaves had it best of all. It was meant to be free country, without bickering and small trouble men make for themselves."

Frank removed his hat letting the sweat released by the band stream down his face. He was still tense from the strain of pulling the chestnut up the wash. "Man has got definite obligations. Make no mistake about it—the world changes. It grows. Man can't duck what he's got lined out for him."

His words brought a laugh from Emmett. "No obligations, Frank. Except to himself. He's got to live for himself the way he can get the most out of each day." (To Be Continued)

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, a Presbyterian elder, Saturday witnessed the ordination of his youngest son as a priest in the Roman Catholic church.

Avery R. Dulles, 38-year-old former World War II naval officer and philosophy teacher, was among 35 Jesuit seminarians ordained by Francis Cardinal Spellman in the campus chapel at Fordham University.

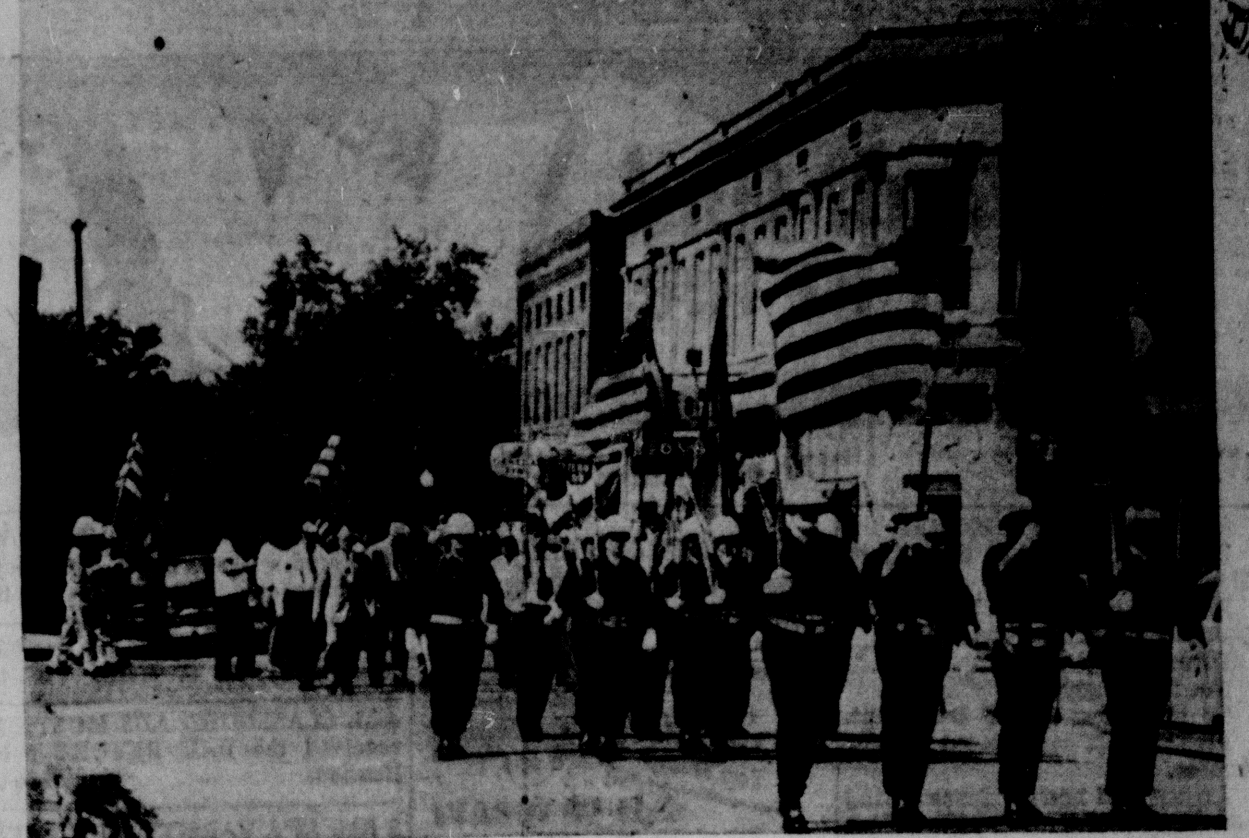

The elder Dulles said after the ceremony:

"I feel very happy that my son has found a faith and deep satisfaction of his faith. I have three children, all of whom I'm very happy to say are very devout and religious. Each in their own way found a communion with God and for that I am happy."

The parade formed at the corner of Church and Main streets, proceeded north to Locust street, then around the square and back to the place of beginning. One of the top attractions in the parade was the drill team and color guard from the Grayville post. This unit, and other units, are shown as the parade was turning south on Vine street from Locust. Other units attracting considerable attention were 40 and 8 railroad engines from Carmi and Mt. Carmel, an old Model T fire truck from Norris City and a jeep from Harrisburg. ## Ladies Cause Fuss

SHREVEPORT, La. (U) — More than 300 law officers and Barksdale AFB airmen searched the woodlands near here for eight hours in an effort to find Valda Kay Humphrey, 5, and Janice Coutee, 3. The frantic search ended when the two little girls finally managed to unlock the restroom door at a service station where they had gone to buy some candy.

The cowbird is so called because it gathers in large numbers in pastures to eat insects which are disturbed by grazing cattle.

Haney, New Manager of Braves, Puts Durocher Issue to Officials

NEW YORK (U) — Fred Haney, the new Milwaukee manager, has been given a job with no guarantees, and he would feel even more uncertain if he knew that the Braves have been making continued inquiries about Leo Durocher.

Rushed into the managerial breach for Charlie Grimm last Saturday night, the 58-year-old Haney put the Durocher issue point-blank to Milwaukee officials.

Haney said he was told, "Don't worry, you're our man."

What the Braves didn't tell Haney, though, was that they have quietly been asking National League baseball people — even clubhouse men — about Durocher's personality and handling of ball players.

Haney is going on the assumption that he can keep the Milwaukee job if he makes a good showing, although he signed no contract Saturday and the tenure of his new job was rather loosely defined in the Braves' official announcement.

At a meeting with the players, club owner Lou Perini referred to newspaper reports about Haney being only a pro-tem manager, then added:

"He is your manager, period." Haney, who managed Pittsburgh from 1953 until he was let out late last season — only to see the Pirates become the National League sensations under Bobby Bragan this year — naturally hopes he won't be made a sacrificial lamb with Milwaukee.

"I told Mr. Perini I didn't want the same thing to happen to me here that happened in Pittsburgh, where I developed the club and then someone else came along and took it over," Haney said.

Haney got off to an auspicious start as Milwaukee manager Sunday when he led the Braves to a pair of victories, 5-4 and 3-1, over the Dodgers in a doubleheader at Ebbets Field.

In the switchover, Grimm was offered a job by the Braves in their front office but he said he would like to think it over.

Legion Drops Pair of Games Over Week End

Shaded by Barons,
3-2; Lose at
Henderson, Ky., 5-1

The Harrisburg Legion baseball nine ran into some rather stiff competition over the week end and came out on the short end of the score in both of their games.

The Old Hickory Barons from Nashville, Tenn., dropped in on the locals Saturday night and left here with a 3 to 2 win over the home town boys to extend their season's mark to a remarkable 19 won and one lost total. This game was a nip and tuck affair all the way with the visitors pushing across the deciding run in the seventh frame as a result of an error, a stolen base and a passed ball. Pitching was good for both clubs as each team managed to bang out only four safe blows throughout the contest.

Jack Burnet and Del Jackson toiled on the hill for the winners with Jordan and Dunn splitting the catching. Big Bill McNew pitched seven innings for the locals and turned the remainder of the game over to Don Wallace. Each local pitcher gave up only two hits while on the rubber. McNew whiffed 10 of the Barons, six of them in a row in the fifth and sixth innings. Frankie Logsdon was behind the plate doing the catching for the Legion.

Jim Parton banged out three singles to carry the burden of the Legion offense at the plate with Dick Odle picking up the other safety.

In Sunday's game at Henderson the locals ran into Big Jim Wallace, one of the ace pitchers of this region, and he handed them a five-hit 5 to 1 setback in a well played game in which the locals played errorless ball. Don Wallace started for the Legion and suffered the loss but Don Karnes relieved Wallace in the eighth to finish up for the losers.

Dick Odle with two singles led the locals' bat attack with Guy Hay, Don Karnes and Harold Guley picking up the others. Guley's drive was a long triple which drove in the only marker the Legion could muster against Wallace. The winners' catcher was Hollowell while Dick Romonosky did the receiving for the losers.

Sunday afternoon at the local VFW field the Legion will again meet the Old Hickory Barons in a return game of what is tentative scheduled as a three game series. Legion players are asked to report to the VFW Park at 4 p.m. Saturday for a practice session.

Middlecoff Wins National; Will Not Play in PGA

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (U) — Cary Middlecoff, elated at his one-stroke victory over Ben Hogan in the U. S. Open golf championship, said today he won't attempt to match Hogan's 1948 "double slam" of the Open and PGA titles.

"My doctor has ordered me not to play in the PGA," explained Middlecoff, whose one-over-par 281 just nipped Hogan in the final round of the Open Saturday at Oak Hill Country Club.

Middlecoff, who stamped himself as a major links prophet before the Open began by saying he would gladly "take 281 and never leave the clubhouse," said he spent "the toughest two hours of my life" waiting in the clubhouse at Oak Hill after he had finished Saturday.

Out on the course, Hogan, Julius Boros and Ted Kroll were taking cracks at his final score. One by one they went down but Middlecoff had to sweat it out as work trickled in.

"I'd have been happy to settle for a tie when they were running at me," he said "While I waited, I never thought I'd get it. The boys gave me a real thrill, I'll tell you."

Boros tied Hogan for second and Kroll finished in a tie at 285 with Peter Thomson and Ed Furgol.

Adcock Paces Braves in Double Win Over Dodgers; Cards Beat Pirates Twice

By United Press

Putting Joe Adcock back in the lineup as manager of the Milwaukee Braves, and the Sunday slugfest that resulted was the first success in the reign of new skipper Fred Haney.

Six-foot, 4-inch Adcock pinch-hit a homer for the Braves in Grimm's last game as manager on Saturday, and jolly Cholly announced big Joe would become a starter again. Haney said he thought Cholly's last idea was a good one, so —

Adcock slugged two homers in the first game and one in the second as the Braves "came to life" with a 5-4, 3-1 doubleheader sweep over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

His second homer decided the opening game, breaking a 4-4 tie, and it was a "Mantle-type" record smasher — the first homer ever hit over the left field roof at Ebbets Field — leaving the park at a spot 350 feet from the plate and 83 feet into the stratosphere. The tape measure boys said it carried 500 feet into a parking lot.

The Milwaukee strong boy's record blow snapped a six-game Dodger winning streak and his next homer, in the second inning of the nightcap, started a two-game Dodger losing streak. Bobby Thomson also homered in this game, a blow that proved the margin of victory.

Milwaukee's sweep, after losing 12 of the last 17 games, helped to turn the National League race into a five-team scramble. Now there are only two games separating first-place Pittsburgh and fifth-place Milwaukee.

The pace-making Pirates took a double drubbing from St. Louis, 3-1 and 8-3. Stan Musial's two-run homer in the first inning was the first-game difference as Tom Poholsky won it with a five-hitter. Three-run homers by Bobby Del Greco and Hank Sauer enabled Willard Schmidt to win the second, with relief help from Jim Konstanty.

The Cincinnati Redlegs took second place from Brooklyn by a half-game by splitting a twin bill with the Giants. Homers by Dusty Rhodes, Daryl Spencer, Willie Mays and Bill White gave the Giants a 7-6 win in the opener, but Joe Nuxhall stopped New York on two hits and fanned eight in the nightcap as Smokey Burgess singled home the only run to win, 1-0.

In another NL doubleheader, Robin Roberts of the Phils beat the Cubs, 7-1, in the opener with help from homers by Willie Jones and Del Ennis, but the Cubs took the second, 7-4, behind Sam Jones with Eddie Miksis' two-run homer the big blow.

The New York Yankees extended their American league lead by 5 1-2 games by beating Cleveland for the third straight time, 9-4, in a single game as second-place Chicago split a twin bill with Washington, winning 20-2 and losing, 10-4.

Two-run homers by Norm Siebern and Yogi Berra gave the Yanks four runs in the first inning and a similar spurge in the seventh included a three-run blast by Hank Bauer.

The White Sox bagged 20 hits in their opening game, including Sherm Lollar's homer, and they got 14 more off Chuck Stobbs in the second but couldn't beat him. It was Stobbs' third win over Chicago this year.

In other AL single games, Ted Lepcio's three-run homer led the Boston Red Sox in a 19-hit attack to beat the Detroit Tigers, 13-2, behind Frank Sullivan's six-hitter, and Bob Nieman's three-run homer in the eighth broke a tie and carried Baltimore to a 7-2 win over Kansas City.

Co-Operative Plan Seeks Faster Recruitment for State Hospitals

A co-operative program of three state agencies aimed at faster and more convenient recruitment of attendants for the state hospitals had its origin in Herrin recently.

The program is new in Illinois. Illinois State Employment Service employees were trained by the Civil Service Commission to give state civil service tests formerly given only by the commission.

ISCS offices at Cairo, Murphysboro, Herrin, Litchfield and Harrisburg will now be able to give the tests to hospital attendant applicants.

Formerly, these tests could be taken in the area only at weekly center at West Frankfort and a monthly center at Mt. Vernon. These centers will remain open on the same schedule.

Pilot Crash- Lands in Field

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)—A National Guard pilot crash-landed his plane in a field near an Illinois highway intersection today after getting lost earlier on a flight from Phoenix, Ariz., to Racine, Wis.

Raymond Ruksas, 38, formerly of Racine, was not hurt in the crash near the intersection of U. S. 41 and Ill. 137. The plane, a National Guard Cessna, skidded more than 150 feet before striking a utility pole in the field.

Ruksas, who was en route to visit his father, John, said he flew south after he was unable to land at Racine because of thick, early morning fog. He attempted to land in the field because he was running out of fuel.
